

The Missing Rooster

A Priest in a small village was very fond of the chickens he kept in a shed out at the back of the Parish House.

He had a cock rooster and about ten hens.

On Saturday night the cock rooster went missing, believed stolen.

The Priest decided to do something about it at morning mass.

At mass he asked the congregation “Has anyone got a cock!” All the men stood up.

“No, he said, that wasn't what I meant. Has anyone seen a cock!” All the women stood up.

“No, he said, that wasn't what I meant has anyone seen a cock that doesn't belong to them!”

Half the women stood up.

“No he said, that wasn't what I meant has anyone seen my cock”

All the Nuns, three boys, two priests and a goat stood up.